Dr. Gregory Broberg is an Associate Teaching Professor at the ASU School of Social Transformation. His presentation entitled, “Unleashing Your Passion” will engage participants in a discussion and self-reflection on critical issues that lead to a successful launch from high school into post-secondary/technical education.

Dr. Broberg supports between 400-600 undergraduate students per semester and has over 10 years of experience as an Arizona K-12 teacher. His passion surrounds the capacity building and support of K-12 systems and curricula for students, teachers, and parents.
